

JUDGING UNDER WAY IN SPLENDID SHOW

COUNTY CHILD GROUND UNDER TRAIN WHEELS

Florence Miller, 2-Year-Old Derby Child, Victim of B. & O. Train

WALKED ON TRACK

Efforts of Engineer to Stop Train Futile.

Florence, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller, Derby, was ground to death under the wheels of a fast southbound B. & O. passenger train Wednesday afternoon about 40 feet from her home.

The mother had given the child a doughnut a short time before the accident and thought she was in the yard playing. Instead she had toddled to the railroad crossing nearby and had walked up the track about 12 feet.

Sat Down on Tie

The engineer told residents the baby was walking on the ties when first noticed. He blew several long blasts on the whistle and the baby sat down on a tie. The engineer and fireman are believed to have been the only witnesses of the tragedy.

Sand was scattered along the tracks showing the engineer had tried to stop the fast train. The child was horribly mangled.

J. E. Freshwater, station attendant at Derby, told officers he heard the whistle and knew something was wrong but did not see the accident.

Florence would have celebrated her second birthday anniversary the 26th of this month. Besides her parents she is survived by two sisters, Anna, 10, Mary, 7, and two brothers, James, 9, and Charles, 4 months.

The train was No. 33 but officers were unable to learn the name of the engineer Wednesday afternoon, as the train had to pull out before they reached the scene of the accident. The train passes through Derby at 3:18 p. m. and makes no stop there.

Death Accidental

Coroner C. E. Bowers returned a verdict of accidental death. He visited the accident with Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Friday in the home of the grandfather, A. M. Daugherty, in Derby. Burial will be in Commerce Point cemetery in charge of E. T. Snyder of Mt. Sterling.

COONS TAKE SHOW PRIZES

Walnut-twp Brothers Have Outstanding Display in Pumpkin Exhibit

Fortunate to have had a display at all because of the spring high water which washed away many pumpkin and squash blossoms, Press Hosler, manager of the pumpkin display, today announced his prize awards.

Baxter Anderson and Cyril Palm, big exhibitors last year, were not in the show this year, Anderson having his crop destroyed and Palm not growing pumpkins.

Coon brothers of Walnut-twp won prizes of $35 and $20 for the best display of pumpkins and squashes with Seymour Runkle of Ashville third gaining a prize of $10.

The largest pumpkin was exhibited by S. E. Beers, Scioto-twp, 62 pounds. The second prize went to George Coon and the third to Margaret Diltz. Awards were $5, $3 and $1.

Robert Bausum of Walnut-twp had the largest squash, an 85-pounder, for which he received $5. P. C. Florence was second and Mrs. Nelson Bell third.

JUDGE DAMAGES ZENGE DEFENSE

CHICAGO, Oct. 17—The fate of love-mad Mandeville W. Zenge, accused of the shocking mutilation-murder of his successful rival, is expected to be in the hands of the jury tomorrow night.

The Missouri farm boy, charged with kidnapping Dr. Walter J. Bauer, chemistry teacher, from his Ann Arbor, Mich., hotel, forcing him to drive to Chicago, and somewhere enroute performing the fatal emasculation, was dealt a severe blow last night by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

After a long session in chambers Judge Harrington sharply restricted the elaborate defense of hereditary insanity planned by Zenge's lawyers.

licking boy of 12, today sorrowfully filed past his modest little coffin, stunned by a fate which drove him to suicide when he could no longer withstand the excruciating pangs of hunger.

His father, John Trushel, is an unemployed railroad man and there were four other small mouths to feed besides Eugene's, the mother's and his own.

Found No Relief

Hopefully, John Trushel trudged to the local relief station, but, according to Huron County Coroner J. D. Bradish, found it closed and went away empty-handed because relief funds here had been exhausted.

Eugene and his four smaller brothers, with ravenous appetites of children their age, awoke the next morning to learn they must go to school with an empty stomach. Nor did they find food awaiting their return home at the lunch hour.

As stated by Coroner Bradish, Eugene had a pet rabbit of which he was very fond, but the hunger of himself and his little brothers was so devastating, he suggested to his parents that they kill his pet for food.

They said it could not be killed and cooked in time for lunch, but agreed to have it for dinner in the evening, Coroner Bradish declared. With this to look forward to, Eugene's brothers trudged back to school. His mother, Mrs. Nettie Trushel, assumed he had joined them.

Used Own Belt

A few minutes later she went to a door leading upstairs. Flinging it open, she cried out at the grisly sight her eyes beheld. There, hanging from a balustrade at the end of a noose, dangled the lifeless body of her oldest son.

Desperately hungry, Eugene had ripped off the belt from his tattered trousers and committed suicide. A physician was summoned, but it was too late. Eugene, he said, had died 20 minutes before of strangulation.

EUROPE AGAIN FEARING WAR

Demands of British Considered
Too Much for Mussolini to Approve

LONDON, Oct. 17—War dread chilled Europe deeper today than at any time since the Italo-Ethiopian conflict began, as Britain prosecuted her economic and financial against Italy at Geneva and practically put it up to Premier Pierre Laval of France to choose now between the Franco-Italian alliance and collective security under the League of Nations.

With 57,000 white Italian troops now massed in Libya, "ready for any emergency" on the Egyptian frontier, and the combined home and Mediterranean fleets apparently ready to enforce a blockade against Italy if economic pressure fails, it was reported from Paris that Premier Mussolini has replied to France's new peace move, and the reply is unsatisfactory to Britain.

DADS TO HEAR NEW GAS PLAN

Adjourn, As Merry-Go-Round
Develops Too Much Competition,
Until Tuesday

The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. will offer a lower rate structure to council at its adjourned meeting Tuesday night.

The gas rate ordinance would have been up for a third reading before council and it was understood amendments were to be offered by the city dads. H. M. Jay, district manager of the company, and George Foerst, local manager, attended the session but were given no opportunity to present the new rate schedule.

This report was rumored in the council chamber last night when councilmen met long enough to read the minutes of the previous session, hear a financial report and adjourn to attend the Pumpkin show.

With the merry-go-round on the south side of the council chamber, a shooting gallery on the north, and a hill-billy orchestra in front of the building, the council meeting was very brief.

The city's financial report as given by Ben Gordon follows: general fund, $1,909.48; library, $2,502.73; auto license, $851.27; gas tax, $1,462.14, and Berger hospital, $584.44. The total of all funds is $7,311.06.

Many windows were drawing large crowds of spectators—notably, Ryan and Merriman Barber shop where a Kippy Kit display is found; the Girl Scout display at Friedman's; N. G. and W. G. Hamilton, Crist Dept. store, Sen-senbrenner's jewelry, Cussins and Fearn, Milliron's barber shop, the Mader Gift shop (always a real attraction), Barrere and Nickerson's where Gene Bach has blossomed out as a decorator.

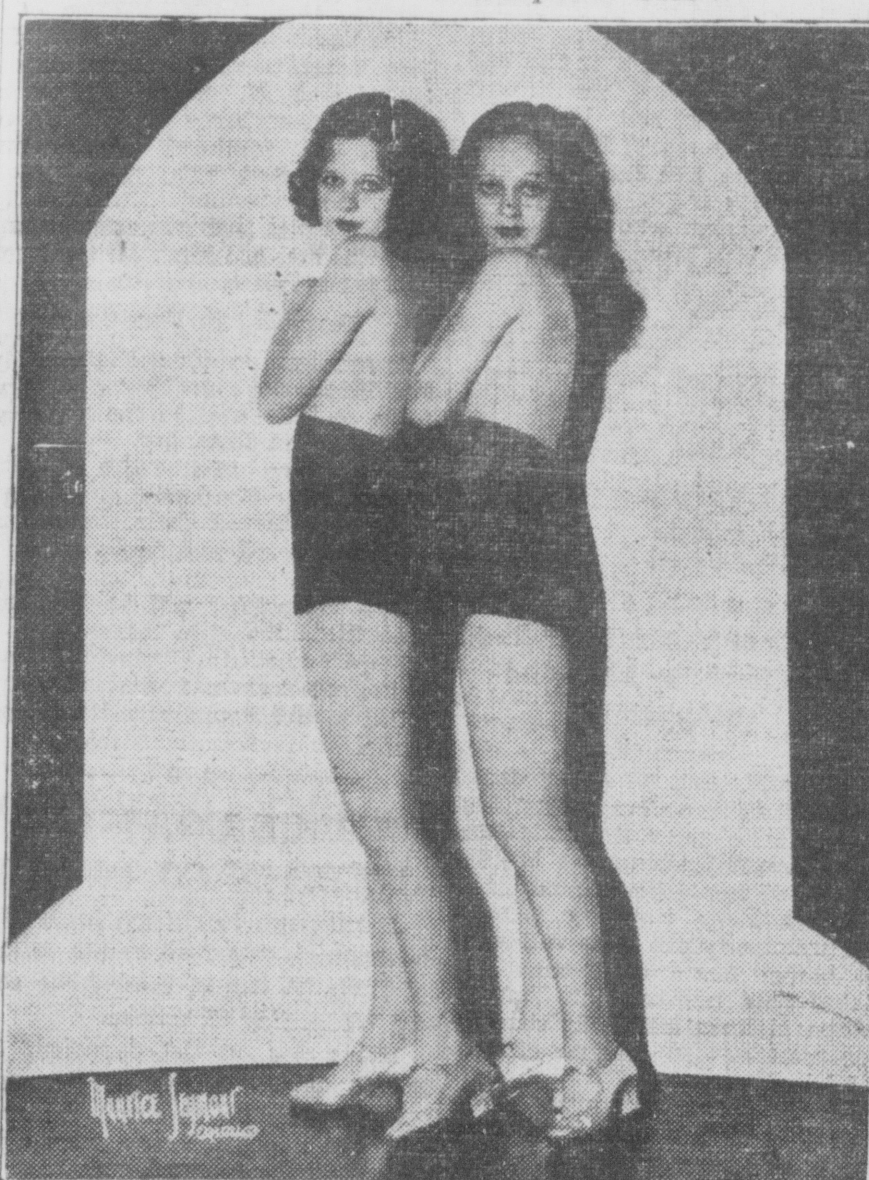

Billy Kellstadt's dogs in the Mykrantz window are the objects of many "ahs"; number of old coins in the Circleville Savings and Banking Co. and a piece of glass from the old Circleville Glass Co., 45 years old, are interesting; Lester H. Coate's model of Admiral Byrd's ship, the Bear of Oakland, in the Southern Ohio Electric Co. window is another example of this expert's work; the model is three months from finished Mr. Coate reports; persons who visit the horse show Thursday evening should be sure to go into Fred Wittich's candy store and see the candy house he made from candy manufactured in his own plant; it's plenty sweet.

There are many other displays and exhibitions of skillful work scattered throughout the uptown district so it behooves every visitor to the Pumpkin show to make a trip, up one street and down the other, viewing every store window. There are a lot of things of interest inside, too, so allow yourself some time.

DAVIS LEAPS FROM PLANE

Daredevil Jumper Plans "Bat" Jump Sunday Afternoon at Air Field

Irvin Davis, daredevil parachute jumper, gave patrons of the Pumpkin show an aerial thrill Wednesday afternoon when he made a jump from an airliner on the west side of the city and landed in the river lands of James I. Smith.

Davis dove out of the plane at about 4,000 feet head first and used two chutes. William Maycock, pilot of the Stinson trimotor plane, circled the jumper until he landed.

Davis planned a bat wing jump but postponed it because of the small crowd at the air field on the Thomas farm, two miles west of the city. He said it would be impossible for him to stage the jump over the city. Present plans of the flyers are to have the jump Sunday afternoon at the airfield.

Free transportation to the field is being furnished by the Harden-Stevenson Co., and Davis packs his parachutes at 10 a. m. daily at the garage.

Marian Martin Patterns

Marian Martin Sew Chart Complete, Diagram Included.

PATTERN 9626

It's a matter of kitchen economy to make two Marian Martin Aprons.

There's more than one way to economize on kitchen expenses, and Marian Martin shows you a very easy one. Here's a brand new apron design you can make up in two, slightly varying styles. As you see, it's a good substantial, cover-up apron, with plenty of feminine appeal in the halter neck that does away with bothersome shoulder-straps. The two sides button smartly at center back with a neat over-lap. Armed with sheers and some gay gingham, or percale you'll soon find how easy they are to make, too. And wouldn't they make a nice gift later for that practical friend? Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9626 may be ordered only in sizes small, medium and large. Small size A requires 2 yards 36 inch fabric; 1½ yards for apron B.

Cuddle toys—the youngsters' and the needleworkers' favorite. The youngsters' because they are doll—soft to hold and just the right size for little hands to cuddle. The needleworkers' because they are made in a jiffy—need little material—are so effective when done. Get out your scrap bag and make a pile of these for the church fair or to put aside for the tots for Xmas—their popularity is assured. In pattern 5463 you will find a pattern of a pig about 5x9 inches; a duck 6x10 inches and a lamb about 8x9 inches; directions for the making; material requirements.

DARBY-TWP SCHOOL NEWS

The Board of Education authorized the purchase of about $25.00 worth of the Ohio Pupil Reading Circle books for the grade. By purchasing a few books each year for each grade, a good library can be built up in a few years. About the same amount of money will be spent for the high school library, this amount being the balance of the library fund appropriated each year by the Board for that purpose.

The boys' baseball team defeated the Pickaway team on their diamond last Friday. Inclement weather prevented the playing of the girls' game scheduled for the same day.

About 213 volumes of books have been sent to us by the Traveling Department of the State Library. This number will enhance the libraries facilities considerably, especially in the high school.

The basketball teams are sponsoring a Halloween Carnival to be given on the evening of November 1. All the grade rooms are being invited to participate by having some sort of attraction in their rooms. The receipts, except those taken in by the grades, will be used to defray expenses involved in equipping the basketball teams, especially the girls.

The auditorium will soon be prepared for basketball so the teams can get into shape before the first game which is scheduled for November 15 at Pickaway. A season of twelve games will be played and every team in the County will be met. The County champions lost three valuable players by the graduation route, Greene, Hicks, and Wardell being the ones who will be missed. The girls' team will consist of about the same members as it did last season, being then mostly Sophomores and Juniors.

The school will have an exhibit in the County School Exhibit at the Pumpkin Show. Considerable time and energy have been spent in preparing entries for this.

THE WAR ON COLDS

AS the first chill winds of autumn blow and the first sniffle reminds us that the season for colds is here, there is welcome news from the American Public Health Service association at Milwaukee. It has announced the development of a vaccine against common colds which immunized part of a group of 110 persons on whom it was tried. The announcement is tentative, and the high hopes of chronic sufferers may crash to earth, but it is comforting at least to know that medical science still seeks to prevent the common cold.

To its lasting glory, the medical profession has effectively directed its forces against many of the more important human ills. But it has never conquered the cold or apparently realized the wholesale discomfort that simple ill has spread throughout the land. Who is there who has not called on his physician, sneezing his head off, only to be told to take a pill, a glass of hot lemonade and go to bed? Even when the treatment is faithfully followed (and it usually is not) the cold runs its course.

Now there is a fine and warming ray of hope from Milwaukee. We hope it is expanded and developed before too many winters have gone past.

GOOD OLD DAYS IN THE AIR

ONE of the country's most intrepid fliers has been telling us the tribulations of the pioneers of aviation, particularly of that line of daredevils beginning with Beachey and Hoxie who barnstormed the land, stunting at county fairs and crossroads in planes which any younger pilot these days would shudder to contemplate.

Often, he says the troupe with which he traveled was without a dollar among them. Then they would lodge in the cheapest hostelry in town, and lacking funds to rent facilities in a garage would smuggle whole engines to hotel rooms where they spent nights grinding valves, adjusting timers and otherwise preparing for the next day's circus. Looping and barrel-rolling on an empty stomach are doubtless correct from the medical view, but not from that of hungry young animals. Less time was wasted by those roving bands in wondering when death would overtake them than where they would find the next meal.

Thus, like the stage, aviation is already old enough to have a tradition of Good Old Days, when troupers tramped, when routes weren't mapped out 26 weeks ahead and where one lived largely on faith and only for the day. Airmen write their stories less on paper than against the sky; but some time one among them, gifted with the pen, will embody his gipsy wanderings with a flying circus in a thrilling contribution to the literature of the Road.

Life is simpler for a man. He doesn't cry when he sees two more men with new suits just like his.

In a free land, every man is a king. The chief concern of a king was to make other people behave.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

WHAT IS THE BEST CALL?

THERE ARE many hands requiring careful examination of all four holdings to determine the best contract for partners. It is no wonder that examination of only one's 13 cards often causes inferior contracts to be undertaken. North and South deserve great credit for reaching the best final call on the deal shown.

Bidding went: South, 2-Spades; North, 3-Diamonds; South, 3-Spades, which was perfectly safe, as the opening 2 insured bidding being kept open until at least game had been reached; North, 4-Diamonds; South, 4-Clubs, showing slam hopes; North, 5-Diamonds; South, after long deliberation, 5-Spades; North, 6-Diamonds, which South was wise enough to pass.

The opening lead was the 4 of hearts, nearly causing declarer to make the mistake of playing a low club from dummy, and winning the lead with his Ace of hearts. Had that been done and trumps led before providing discards of his two losing hearts, declarer would have fared poorly had East been allowed to win a trump trick. Just in time, dummy's lone trump was utilized to ruff the heart. Declarer gained entry to his own hand by means of his lone spade. Three rounds of trumps were taken, giving East his Q of diamonds, and rendering him helpless. Another heart was led, which North's Ace captured. Dummy's Ace of clubs furnished entry to the exposed hand, and declarer's remaining heart and his last club were discarded upon two good spades, enabling him to fulfill his small slam contract.

No opening lead could have defeated the small slam contract. Suppose that a club had been the opening lead. Dummy's Ace would have taken the trick. Two rounds of winning diamonds would have left East his lone Q. The K of spades would have been overtaken with the Ace. Three added rounds of winning spades would have been run. On these declarer would have been able to discard both his losing hearts and his last club. East could have ruffed the last lead of spades, but that would have been his only trick. An opening lead of spades would have made things easy while an opening lead of trumps would have yielded a grand slam.

South could not have made a small slam. Opponents never would have allowed dummy to ruff a club and two club tricks normally must have been lost. Diamonds was the best call.

The Romance Racket

MARIE BLIZARD

READ THIS FIRST:

Fun, parties, pretty clothes and beaux are things unattractive Carol Kennedy had never desired until she looked into the eyes of Dr. Owen Crato, fiancé of her cousin, Kathy Prentice. Kathy is marrying Owen for social prestige alone. When Carol, an orphan, comes into a vast fortune, she suddenly decides to leave her old home in Connecticut and seek freedom and happiness in New York. Isabel Bronson, an old school chum, helps Carol to buy proper clothes and takes her to her first cocktail party where she meets Gary Randall, a playboy. Acting on a whim, he takes her to a beauty shop from which she emerges as an attractive girl. Knowing nothing of her wealth, he helps her to meet Manfred Morris, theatrical producer, who gives her a part in a Broadway show. But Carol does not care for the theater and Owen helps her obtain a temporary job as office nurse with a colleague, Dr. Harding. Carol evades Gary's proposal of marriage but scolds herself for showing an interest in Owen during Kathy's absence in Europe. A Miss Van Cleve, a patient of Dr. Harding, calls and shows an interest in Carol when she finds she knew her mother years before. Dr. Harding leaves town and assigns Carol as companion nurse to Miss Van Cleve for observational purposes.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 28

"I'M GLAD to hear that you will," Dr. Harding told Carol when she said she would do as he wished by going to Miss Van Cleve during his absence.

"What will my duties be?" she asked.

"They will be easy but you must be a keen observer. I have already suggested to Mr. Van Cleve that I should like to have someone spend some time with his aunt. You will be more companion than nurse. I imagine her routine is simple. Perhaps she will require you to read to her, talk to her, drive with her. However, it will not be gay for you since I will require you to spend all your time with her until my return. You will make your residence in the Van Cleve home. Is that agreeable?"

Distinctly it would not have been had Carol no personal interest in the elderly lady. It was escape from a lonely life spent in the company of only a nurse that Carol had sought and it had led her right back to where she was.

For a moment she was tempted to retract her promise but since it was to be for only a fortnight and since there was some indefinable air of mystery about the whole situation and because Dr. Harding had stressed the words it would be in Miss Van Cleve's interest solely, she knew that she must see it through.

"I've made an appointment for you to see Mr. Van Cleve at his home at five," the doctor concluded.

The Van Cleve residence was an old-fashioned brown stone house on East 54th street, standing solidly and bleakly between two tall, modern apartments. Its narrow facade presented a gloomy exterior and its plain-curtained windows looked out on the street like unseeing eyes with gloomy and dark thoughts behind them.

When Carol rang the bell, she heard it jangling somewhere in the depths of the house and then there was a long silence before the door was opened by a wrinkled butler who had been at least a hundred years old when she thought. When she told him who she was, he gave her a sharp glance and wordlessly ushered her into the library at the end of the dim-lit hall.

Waiting for her host, Carol took the room in swiftly, the browns and faded greens she knew so well from her old home. Heavy curtains obscured a gloomy window and cold lights threw a baleful glare into the unfriendly room.

"This will certainly be jolly," she thought sarcastically. "It looks like the kind of a household where they keep out the sunlight and the cook is afraid to put butter on her bread. I wonder what the doctor wants to know, wants me to find out."

"We shall expect you immediately."

Her soliloquy came to an abrupt end.

"How do you do, Miss Kennedy. I'm Mr. Van Cleve." She hadn't even heard him enter the room. "You are a nurse?"

Carol thought quickly before she answered. "I'm the person Dr. Harding sent," she said, not answering his question directly. She wanted to stay here now and she was afraid if she denied that she was a nurse, Mr. Van Cleve would find a reason for not accepting her. Inquisitively she felt that he did not want anyone there at all. She couldn't explain that sixth sense.

"I see." He folded his hands and drew his brows together. And although he beamed at her broadly, the cold, inscrutable look did not leave his eyes. He began talking:

"I assume that Dr. Harding has already explained this case to you?" "Very little of it," she said, and waited.

"Then, of course, you know, that my aunt is the patient. It is a delicate case and we wish to move carefully." Carol wondered who "we" might be. "Aunt Miranda is very dear to us. She is the last of her generation and I fear we have spoiled her but that is only because we want her to be happy."

Carol thought the sort of spoiling Mr. Van Cleve would do would require quite some imagination but her fair spirit told her that she was not to judge from appearances. Her own mother had been of this old-fashioned school and while she was demanding, she was a kind woman. "It is not entirely her health that gives us grave concern; she is a delicate, brittle little lady at the mercy of her... shall we say... her nerves. Of late she has not... er... she has not been quite herself. I find it difficult to explain that statement. She has insisted on assuming duties of which she should be relieved. She doesn't wish to, however, and we feel that a rest... the advice of a good physician might be more convincing than... er... than any argument her own family might put forth."

"I see, then you mean that I am to relieve her of some of these duties?" Carol asked.

"No... no I don't mean that. To put it quite baldly, Aunt Miranda, at times, acts very strangely. Not that this will affect you," he said it hastily. "In fact, it may not be noticeable at all while you are here. Dr. Harding said he would like to have some one with her until his return. We are most anxious to have Dr. Harding take the case and only too glad to accede to his wishes. Your duties will be... er... light and you are perfectly free to come and go as you please. I hardly believe it will be necessary for you to spend your evenings here."

Dr. Harding had said she was to be in residence at the Van Cleves. Carol was beginning to understand that her chief wanted her there all the time and there she would stay.

"I understood that I was to live here, Miss Van Cleve, while I am attending Mrs. Van Cleve." She said it for all the world as though she had no other place to stay.

"Certainly. Very well," Van Cleve dismissed it. "We shall expect you immediately. I'll have Perkins arrange everything. Remember what I said, and make any social engagements you want to. You are young and we are not very gay around here. I assure you that we will not demand all your time."

"Thank you," she said and that was all.

Horton Van Cleve, in a courtly manner, showed her to the door and she had turned to him to say good-by when a small voice from the top of the dark staircase called:

"Horton, is that the young lady Dr. Harding sent?"

A look of impatience crossed Horton's dark face and passed quickly.

"Yes, Aunt Miranda. She is coming to us in the morning."

"But I would like to see her now."

With an air of humoring a pet child's wish, Horton turned to Carol and in a most charming voice said: "Would you mind? I regret keeping you so long but Aunt Miranda's slightest wish is important in this house."

"Not at all," Carol felt her way up the stairs and followed a shaft of light leading to the front sitting room where Miranda Van Cleve waited. She could not see Carol's face in the shadows but Carol could see the firmness of her face when she said: "Thank you, Horton. You need not wait. I'll see the lady alone."

She closed the door and with her back still to Carol said: "What is your name?"

Carol laughed softly. "Don't you remember me, Miss Van Cleve? I'm Carol Kennedy."

For an instant the older woman looked at her. Then she came across the room and took both the girl's hands into her own little ones. She looked searchingly into Carol's face for a moment and then silently began to cry.

"Oh, my dear, what is it?" Carol wiped the tears away as though the little lady were a child and she the mother.

"They're tears of relief," Miss Van Cleve answered. "I'm so glad it's you. You won't leave me. I'm in deep trouble... and now I feel as though I had found a friend. I can't tell you now but tomorrow when I am sure we are alone..."

Prentiss Gilbert - Hugh Wilson Feud Back of Cumming's Appointment.

WASHINGTON—There are factors behind the appointment of Secretary Hull's personal assistant as American observer in Geneva which do not at first meet the naked eye.

Hugh Cumming, the young man in question, was on a European honeymoon after marrying Winifred West, Washington's most winsome widow. Ostensibly to prolong the honeymoon, Mr. Hull ordered him to remain in Geneva. There was much more to it than that.

In the first place the British had been nagging Mr. Hull to have the United States represented at the League debate in sanctions against Italy. They wanted Hull to follow the precedent of Henry L. Stimson who placed an American observer with the Council during the debate on Japan's invasion of Manchuria.

Hull's private sympathies leaned toward appointment of such an observer. But his practical political ideas leaned against it. He knew what a luscious campaign battle cry such an appointment would make for the Republicans: "New Deal risks war entanglement by sending observer to League."

Career

In the second place, Mr. Hull knew a fierce struggle was in progress between his two regular representatives in Geneva.

The American Consul, Prentiss Gilbert, constantly is at cross-purposes with Hugh Wilson, American Minister to Switzerland. The feud is one of the most sensational in the States Department, has involved the entire career service. Wilson, a career man, feels the important liaison work between the United States and the League should be accomplished by an experienced career diplomat.

Gilbert, who joined the State Department after having run the New York State Fair in Rochester, N. Y., is not an adept at pink ties and protocol. So Mr. Hull decided to trust neither side, but get reports from his own man in Geneva.

NOTE—Hugh Cumming is a sleek-haired, obsequious young man, not brilliant but willing, whose chief road to promotion has been playing croquet with the Secretary of State.

Prentiss Gilbert

Prentiss Gilbert, American consul at Geneva, is a practical joker. During a White House reception some years ago, Gilbert strayed down to one of the corridors on the ground floor where he noticed another guest, holding his jaw and obviously in much pain.

"Is there anything I can do for you?" Gilbert asked. "I am a dentist and I thought I might be of assistance."

The anguish on the stranger's face gave way to a look of piteous hope. Following Gilbert's directions, he sat down under one of the White House potted palms and opened his mouth wide.

"A little wider please," instructed the American consul in Geneva. "There I see the trouble. I believe I can just about fix that—at least until tomorrow. But you will have to wait here until I get my bag. It's in the car outside."

Gilbert was about to leave his distraught patient, sitting mouth wide open, indefinitely, while he went for a mythical medicine bag. But suddenly Mrs. Gilbert appeared.

She broke up the dental clinic immediately.

Smoking Expensive, Useless, But Not Harmful to Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A YOUNG MAN eighteen years of age writes me as follows:

"I'm smoking harmful to your health? I have often seen in advertisements that athletes smoke, and they say it does not impair their wind nor weaken the heart. I also observed that most doctors smoke."

"I am just eighteen years old and have not started to smoke yet, although once in a while I feel the urge to. I do not think I do not want to be different. If you could give me one good reason that would prejudice me against it, I would make it a point not to."

I can give at least one good reason against smoking, which is that it is expensive.

But that is not on the health side, except that when you are broke you worry and that makes you sick. The question as put—"Is smoking healthful?"—would have to be answered in the negative. But if you were to put it, "Is smoking unhealthful?" that would also, I am afraid, according to quite abundant researches, have to be answered "No."

There was once a standing offer, as I remember it, of a reward of ten thousand dollars to anyone who would prove that tobacco is injurious to health. The originator was an elderly lady in Massachusetts, who was very much opposed to tobacco, but who was unable to prove that it was harmful and was too intellectually honest to propagandize against it until it was proved. The reward never was claimed.

As to the question of athletics and training, here, too, I am of the opinion that there has been a great deal of senseless, or unfounded, prohibitions. At the world series games I met an old friend of mine who played for a year with the New York Giants. He says he spent all of his time on the bench except in practice—but he learned a lot about baseball players.

One particular thing that struck him, as contrasted to his college athletics, was the complete absence of training rules among baseball clubs. As far as I can learn that still obtains. The players don't get drunk, but they are not always total abstainers. They smoke and eat as they choose. The only rule was that on the road they had to be in bed by 10:30. The real training was to wind and heart by the intensive practice, especially running, every day.

It is pretty hard to expect a group of men to stay in strict "training" for the period of the entire baseball season. The football players are better. Living up to a strict program of health rules is a little more than human nature can stand for any long stretch.

But there is no question that tobacco is a completely useless practice.

OFFICIALS PREDICT SELL-OUT FOR ILLINI

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17—With the ticket sale closed for the Notre Dame-Ohio State football game to be played at Ohio stadium Nov. 2, a grand rush has started to obtain seats for the Illinois contest Nov. 16, the last home game for the Bucks.

So great has been the rush for Illinois tickets during the last days that Henry D. Taylor, director of ticket sales, is predicting another sell-out for that contest. "Since Illinois defeated Southern California Saturday we have literally been swamped with applications for tickets to our game with the Illini," Taylor said today. "If this keeps up you will see another sell-out for Nov. 16," he added.

Should this occur it will be the first time Ohio State has had two sell-out games in one season since the Bucks met Princeton and Michigan the same year.

SCHMIDT SAYS OHIO TO HAVE DIFFICULT JOB

Must Stop Cruice, Swisher and Heap; McDonald and Williams to Get Action

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17—From over around Evanston, Ill., comes the news that Northwestern's football coaching staff has been flooding the adjoining countryside with whole-hearted tears induced by the fact that the Wildcats are the next Ohio State grid opponents.

However, the wails of Lynn Waldorf and his aides have left little impression upon Coach Francis Schmidt of the Buckeyes who can visualize little else except the vicious Wildcats clawing deep into the Scarlet Scourge.

In other words, Schmidt, while far from being depressed, is also some distance removed from jubilation. The Buckeye mentor thinks the Scarlet warriors, despite their showing last Saturday, are going to have a fierce battle on their hands.

Has Three Stars

Schmidt can't understand why Waldorf is so morose since the Wildcat mentor has such stars as Co-Captain Wally Cruice, Bob Swisher, and Don Heap performing in the Purple backfield.

"That trio is dangerous and packs plenty of running and passing power," Schmidt said. "Why that Cruice guy can get the opposition turning on his head the way he throws passes."

It might be stated that Cruice is one of the few left-handed passing aces in the mid-west.

"And besides that great passing threat, Northwestern's triple-threat sophomore, Heap, is one of the flashiest runners in the conference and he'll probably give us plenty of trouble," Schmidt added. "Heap is so good that he has just about beaten Swisher out for the left halfback position. I guess I'm the guy that ought to do quite a bit of wailing."

The Buckeye coach expects Waldorf's charges to spring plenty of new offensive tricks against Ohio since Northwestern has had two weeks to prepare for the contest. The Evanston crew enjoyed an open date last week.

Line in Conditions

As far as the Buckeye line is concerned, Schmidt said that all of his regulars would probably be in condition to start the Purple conflict.

Jim McDonald, sophomore fullback, will see plenty of action in the Scarlet backfield while Jumping Joe Williams, the bounding Barborton citizen, will undoubtedly replace Heckin before the game gets too well along in time.

Gridders Just After Position

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17—Maybe you have heard the question asked, or even been asked yourself, as to the reason for Ohio State's large score against Drake university last Saturday. The Bucks won 85 to 7.

Here's Referee Joe Magidsohn's explanation: "Their plays just clicked, that's all. Ohio State players were not hearing down at any time in the game after the first five minutes. They were working easily."

Here is the explanation made by the players themselves: "If you were trying for a place on the team, the team which we all hope will be Ohio State's greatest, what would you do, go out there and fiddle around or try to make touchdowns? Well, so did we."

And that seems to be the logical explanation. Coach Schmidt has 38 boys of varsity caliber. They all want to make the grade and to date not a single man is sure of his place on the team. Therefore, when these boys got their chance to make a showing they wanted to do their best and no boy can be censured for playing the game the way he has been taught.

Coach Schmidt did his level best to stop the touchdown parade by keeping a steady string of replacements going onto the field but to no avail. He used 47 men during the afternoon, every man on his squad except three who were on the injured list.

LOUIS TO BATTLE UZCUDUN, MAYBE

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 — John Roxborough, one of Joe Louis managers, was due in New York to close with Mike Jacobs for a fight for the brown bomber in December at the New York coliseum.

Those who profess to be "in the know," say Louis is destined to meet Paulino Uzcudun, the durable basque, who has never been knocked out.

If Louis can stop Uzcudun, even his most reactionary critics will concede he has plenty of punching power.

Jacobs expressed the belief that any match involving Louis in the coliseum would draw about $120,000.

Paulino is understood to have been offered $40,000 and a percentage of the gate if he will meet the conqueror of Max Baer and Primo Carnera.

Michigan Mentor Says Tulane Will Be "Workout" for Minnesota — Wolverine Finally Becomes Favorite, in Game With Wisconsin

By HARRY KIPKE
Football Coach, University of Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 17—There is a lot of romance packed into this game of football. It's a story of high adventure. It is warfare scaled down to the field of sport, but warfare just the same. It is the story of campaigns carefully planned, of strategy fought according to an operations schedule. It is the story of invasions into foreign lands, of high hopes, of great ambitions, of triumphs and of failures.

Next Saturday should see good teams battling for sectional honors. Minnesota will take on a southern eleven in Tulane and will no doubt follow through on the job it did last Saturday. Tulane isn't the best team the south could have picked for this test by a long ways, but it isn't one of the set-ups in the south, either.

There was a lot of doubt in the Gopher camp a week ago, with not only the rooters but probably the players themselves wondering just how good the big boys were. That doubt is all gone now, dissipated completely by the Nebraska triumph, and its place is a confidence which will carry the Bierman team a long ways. It will be almost a warm-up game for Minnesota, this battle with Tulane, and Coach Ted Cox, of the New Orleans team, himself a former Gopher, will see another great Minnesota team in action.

Indiana will take care of Cincinnati university just as it took care of Centre college. The Hoosiers trotted out a great assortment of plays on the Michigan gridiron last Saturday and Cincinnati will see them this week.

Michigan State, Notre Dame and the University of Detroit this week will be playing eastern teams and the East can look forward to little comfort in the situation. Boston college will be a good test for Bachman's fine eleven from Michigan State and the Boston open date last Saturday will help—but not enough. State is to be considered as one of the great elevens of the country this year. Notre Dame takes on Pittsburgh and should continue its victory stride. Catholic university will invade Detroit with a nice easy-season victory to its credit, but the University of Detroit hasn't been the underdog yet and it won't be in this game. And Marquette will continue its great drive toward recognition with another victory, this time over St. Louis university.

Buckeye and Purple

In the Western Conference itself the Ohio State-Northwestern game will be the big contest. Ohio seems to have gained the momentum predicted and there is every reason to believe that it has entirely too much for the eleven coached for the first time by Waldorf. Ohio will cut loose this boy "Jumping Joe" Williams and he will go places.

The Chicago-Purdue game will be a whizzbang, too. While Coach Shaughnessy still has his full strength, including Berwanger, it seems that Purdue will have too much power to turn on. Berwanger showed a lot of ability at throwing forward passes last Saturday, and Purdue almost got into difficulty against Fordham in the matter of stopping that kind of an attack. Maybe Berwanger will make it tough for the Boilermakers. But not tough enough, McGannon and Wright, operating behind that fine Purdue line, will do too many things.

Then there is that game up at Madison, Wis., with Michigan as the invaders. It will be a new experience for the Wolverines, for it appears we'll go into that game as favorite. Up to now we have been rather consistent underdogs.

The other two Conference teams, Iowa and Illinois, will be resting. And do they deserve it! Their great victories enhanced the prestige of the Big Ten last Saturday and those boys have a week off coming to them.

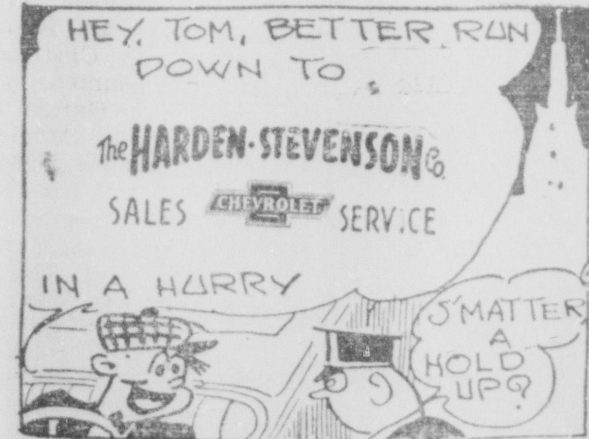

Tennessee Skipper

Toby Palmer

After a ragged start, University of Tennessee is fighting its way back into the southern grid picture and one of the reasons is Captain Toby Palmer, above. Halfback Palmer's fine leadership and educated toe are helping to make the Vols' season a success.

LAYDEN FEARS LINE TO HURT TEAM CHANCE

Plensed With Backfield as Notre Dame Prepares for Pitt's Invasion

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 17—Distressed at the manner in which the frosh ran through the Notre Dame varsity and second stringers with Pittsburgh plays yesterday, Coach Elmer Layden planned another long session of defensive work for the Irish today.

Although blessed with a plentitude of backs, Layden has fears for his green forward wall. Frank Kopczak was at the injured John Michuta's post at right tackle yesterday. Mike Layden was in uniform but did not get into the scrimmage. His halfback position was played by Vic Wojchowski.

PAPICH ONLY INJURY

CHICAGO, Oct. 17—Sam Papich, veteran tackle, will be the only Northwestern regular on the injured list when the Wildcats depart tonight for Columbus and their game with Ohio State Saturday. A long session against Buckeye plays was given the varsity last night.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 17—Tom McGannon will be at Cecil Isbell's halfback post when the Boilermakers lineup against Chicago there Saturday, it appeared certain today. The Texas star reported for practice last night with his shoulder injury still aggravated, and it is unlikely he will be able to play against the Maroons.

USE FIVE SOPHOMORES

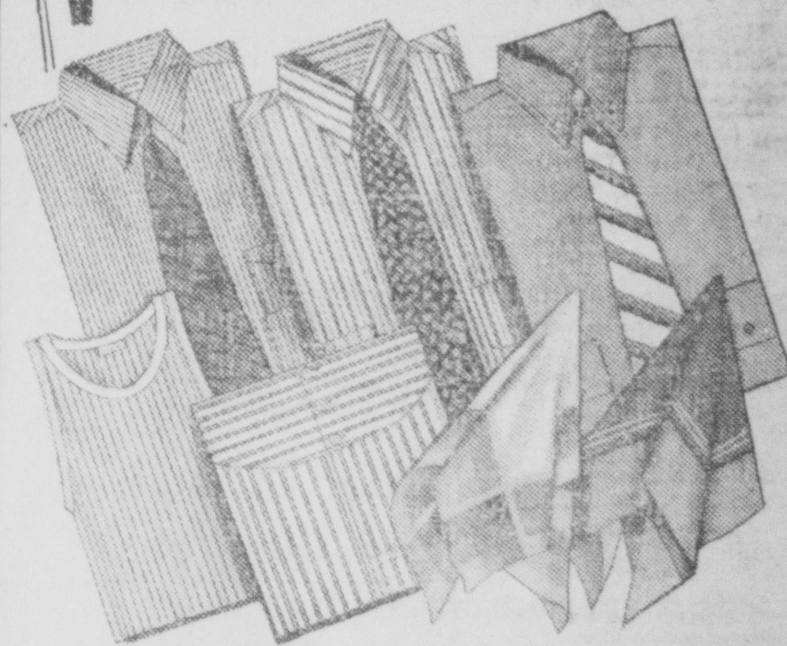

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17 — A light, final workout was scheduled for the University of Pittsburgh football machine today, after which Coach "Jock" Sutherland will select the squad for the trip to South Bend and the Notre Dame meeting Saturday. The team planned to leave tonight. It was expected five sophomores will start the game for the Panthers, hard-hit by injuries to regular players.

Max Baer is going to sink some money in white-faced cattle. Anxious to avoid, no doubt, even a remote reminder of Joe Louis.

"A Home Concern"

THE ONLY DRAWBACK

Two old settlers, confirmed bachelors, sat in the backwoods. The conversation drifted from politics and finally got around to cooking.

"I got one o' them cookery books once, but I never could do nothing with it."

"Too much fancy work in it, eh?"

"You've said it. Every one o' them recipes began the same way: 'Take a clean dish,' and that settled me."

TELLTALE CABBAGE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Frank Ruffa missed some cabbage and a cabbage was found in the car of Lewis Wells and Claud Smothers, but the task of identifying that cabbage as one of Ruffa's appeared an impossible one. Patrolmen Clarence Stickler and John Holslaw, however, brought in evidence that sent the two suspects to jail. They took the cabbage and "tried it on" all the cabbages on Ruffa's farm, finally finding one that fitted perfectly.

14 MEETINGS FOR CORN-HOG DISCUSSIONS

Series of Informational Sessions to Start Next Monday; List Schedule

Fourteen community meetings where Pickaway-co farmers will be given the facts on the present corn-hog situation and outlook as a forerunner for the nation-wide corn-hog referendum on Saturday, Oct. 26, have been scheduled starting Monday, Oct. 21 and ending Friday, Oct. 25, it is announced by County Agent F. K. Blair.

The schedule of places dates and time follow:

MONDAY, Oct. 21, 8 p. m. Circleville-twp., Washington-twp. Farm Bureau, Madison-twp., school building, Monroe-twp., school building, Saltcreek-twp., school building.

TUESDAY, Oct. 22, 8 p. m. Deer creek-twp., school building, Jackson-twp., school building, Pickaway-twp., school building.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 23, 8 p. m. Harrison-twp., Duval school building, Scioto-twp., school building, Walnut-twp., school building.

THURSDAY, Oct. 24, 8 p. m. Muhlenberg-twp., school building, Perry-twp., school building, Wayne-twp., school building.

FRIDAY, Oct. 25, 8 p. m., Darby-twp., Township-house.

Numbers Out of Live

The situation to be discussed at the meetings is one in which live-stock numbers are far out of line with feed supplies as a result of the drought. With plentiful supplies of cheap feed in prospect and with rapid rebuilding of swine numbers possible, farmers and consumers face the prospect that the next three years may bring an increase in hog production too quickly to be absorbed without recurrence of disastrous hog prices.

Ten such violent ups and downs, or cycles, during the past 45 years have undermined the swine industry, brought violent upswings in pork prices, destroyed farm buying power, and wiped out markets for industrial products.

In the opinion of committeemen who attended a recent county meeting, not only the future of the hog industry but also the gains that have been made during the past two years are at stake in the forthcoming referendum. Those two years have seen the end of ruinously low prices for corn and hogs with consequent benefits both to farmers and industrial activities. In recent months, for the first time in nearly ten years, corn and hog prices have been at or near their fair exchange value. Despite the drought, cash farm income from hogs in 1934, including adjustment payments, was more than 37 per cent greater than in 1933 and nearly 60 per cent greater than in 1932.

4-H CLUB MEETS

The Logan Elm Campfire Cookery held a meeting at Niles Camp Oct. 6. The parents were invited. A dinner of Chili Con Carne, sandwiches, Pie, Coffee, and cake was served. After lunch was served boating and games were enjoyed after which a short business meeting was held and plans were discussed for taking a short motor trip down in the hills. Those who attended the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Pontious and daughters, Irene and Marvina, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Riffle and children, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Liest and children, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krisel and children, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Warner and sons, Mr. and Mrs. George Jury and son, and Hoyt, Virgil, Edna, and Truit Timmons, and Helen Westenhaver. The next meeting will be held on Oct. 20.

Distance is supposed to lend enchantment. But, even from this vantage point, Mussolini's tactics look pretty raw to us.

BENITO MUSSOLINI
—HIS RISE TO POWER

No. 5

King Victor Emmanuel and Mussolini—two comrades

Following his triumph in Rome, Mussolini lost no time in putting into effect the tenets of Fascism. More than 1,900 new legislative measures were enacted by his government in the first two years of his regime. The party system was wiped out overnight. At the same time, Mussolini followed up his conquest of October, 1922, by utilizing his Blackshirts as the basis of an armed force which today has only one superior in number, the Red army of Soviet Russia. The doctrine of his nationalism can be seen in one of his statements: "For my part, I prefer 50,000 rifles to 5,000,000 votes." By his own word, Mussolini today could put 9,000,000 men into the field. They would all be young but all would be fighters. Mussolini is the only "Caesar" who has allowed another to sit on the throne. The gradual change in relations between Victor Emmanuel and Mussolini is graphically portrayed in the above picture. It must be remembered that when the Fascists rose to take over the government, the then premier, Facta, prepared a decree declaring Italy in a state of siege. Victor Emmanuel refused to sign it. And Mussolini did not forget this. The photo shows the king and his premier dressed formally for his royal audience, the day that Victor Emmanuel surrendered the last shred of his royal power and made Mussolini II Duke by giving him unlimited right of action. Note how they walk together as comrades.

Questions and Answers

What is meant by "abrasive" as used in describing cleaning materials?

When the term abrasive is applied to cleaning materials it describes a substance containing sharp particles of glass or sand that will scratch any fine surface. An abrasive material should be avoided in cleaning enamels, paints and other surfaces where a high luster is desired.

Can you give me a recipe for Camp Stew? It is a dish known in the South I understand, and I would like to know how it is concocted.

Camp Stew is a dish suitable for an entire meal, and is made with these ingredients:

Camp Stew
4 slices bacon
2 lbs. lamb shoulder
Salt and pepper
2 onions
2 large potatoes
3 tomatoes or ½ C. cats
4 Tbsp. coarse crumbs
1 Tbsp. melted butter
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Fry bacon. Salt and pepper the lamb. Fry lamb until brown with sliced onions in bacon fat. Line bottom of baking dish with bacon strips, place lamb on top of this, having drained fat from it first. Cover with a layer of fried onions, then with sliced potatoes, then tomatoes. Season lightly with salt and pepper, sprinkle with buttered crumbs that have been moistened with Worcestershire sauce. Cover with a close fitting lid and bake in a slow oven (350 degrees) for about 2 hours. Uncover a few minutes before serving and let brown.

Is there any way to remove argyrol stains from a white silk dress?

Argyrol may leave a rather persistent stain. First wash the garment in cold water. Apply undiluted hydrogen peroxide and rub in baking soda. Hold over a bowl of steaming water until the stain fades. Rinse well and wash in hot water. This treatment may be used on white silk, cotton, linen and flannel.

Will you tell me how to make a Blushing Apple Salad? The apples are a bright red and I would like to know if they are colored with vegetable coloring matter.

Use these ingredients for Blushing Apple Salad:

Blushing Apple Salad
8 apples
1½ C. sugar
½ C. water
½ C. red cinnamon candies
1 pkg. cream cheese
2 Tbsp. finely chopped walnuts
Lettuce

Wash, pare and core apples. With a French vegetable cutter, cut small balls from 2 apples. Boil sugar, water and cinnamon candies 5 minutes. Put whole apples 2 at a time in the red syrup; cool slowly, turning frequently. When tender (not soft) and evenly colored, remove from syrup, drain and cool. Cook balls in the syrup and drain when tender. Mash cream cheese, soften with cream, add nuts. Fill cavities of apples with cream cheese making a rose on top with a pastry bag. Arrange on lettuce cups and garnish with apple balls. Serves 6.

“June in January” Becomes Reality
In Gas Heated Circleville Home

Furnace Cares Vanish
When Gamble Family
Installs Gas Heat

The uniform, healthful temperatures of June's most balmy day prevail in January—and all winter long—in the home belonging to Mrs. S. C. Gamble, 313 South Court St. Supplying this ideal indoor weather is an automatic gas-fired central heating plant—one of the many installations in Circleville residences.

Mrs. Gamble is enthusiastic about the many advantages of gas for heating her home. The convenient, clean and dependable qualities of gas make it the ideal fuel for central house heating. Uniform temperatures automatically controlled by a thermostat result in better living for this family during the winter season. Mrs. Gamble says, “We are very well pleased with our automatic gas heating equipment.”

Gas heat for the nine rooms of this home during the heating season costs an average of $17.55 per month. This is less than $2 per room, at which rate a six room residence would cost approximately $12 per month.

The action states on Oct. 8 the plaintiff obtained a $1,300 judgment in common pleas court against C. M. Dick, a legatee under the will. The action asks the executors set aside the interest of Mr. Dick for settlement of the judgment.

Suffering In Silence

Her friends no longer sympathize with her—they have told her all about VATONA, but she is one of those old-fashioned souls that still believe women were “born to suffer”.

Women who use VATONA (and there are many among your acquaintances) use it regularly—they would never think of permitting periodical pain to endanger their health and beauty. VATONA is so dependable—is absolutely harmless—two very good reasons why physicians recommend it.

Why experiment with patent medicines?

DARBY-TWP SCHOOL NEWS

The Board of Education authorized the purchase of about $25.00 worth of the Ohio Pupil Reading Circle books for the grade. By purchasing a few books each year for each grade, a good library can be built up in a few years. About the same amount of money will be spent for the high school library, this amount being the balance of the library fund appropriated each year by the Board for that purpose.

The boys' baseball team defeated the Pickaway team on their diamond last Friday. Inclement weather prevented the playing of the girls' game scheduled for the same day.

About 213 volumes of books have been sent to us by the Traveling Department of the State Library. This number will enhance the libraries facilities considerably, especially in the high school.

The basketball teams are sponsoring a Halloween Carnival to be given on the evening of November 1. All the grade rooms are being invited to participate by having some sort of attraction in their rooms. The receipts, except those taken in by the grades, will be used to defray expenses involved in equipping the basketball teams, especially the girls.

The auditorium will soon be prepared for basketball so the teams can get into shape before the first game which is scheduled for November 15 at Pickaway. A season of twelve games will be played and every team in the County will be met. The County champions lost three valuable players by the graduation route, Greene, Hicks, and Wardell being the ones who will be missed. The girls' team will consist of about the same members as it did last season, being then mostly Sophomores and Juniors.

The school will have an exhibit in the County School Exhibit at the Pumpkin Show. Considerable time and energy have been spent in preparing entries for this.

They will judge a ring each of Jerseys, Guernseys, and Holsteins aged dairy cattle. They will judge two rings of Heifers Wednesday evening. They will attend the National F. F. A. Banquet. They plan to return home Thursday, Oct. 31.

The agriculture classes were visited by Robert Baumus '35. The purpose of this visit was to explain to students the different classes in which they might enter this last year's projects at the Junior Fair.

Thursday, Oct. 10, the farm shop went to the Circleville Lumber Company to study the different kinds and grades of lumber.

The Freshman and Sophomore class has just finished studying the culling of poultry laying hens and pullets.

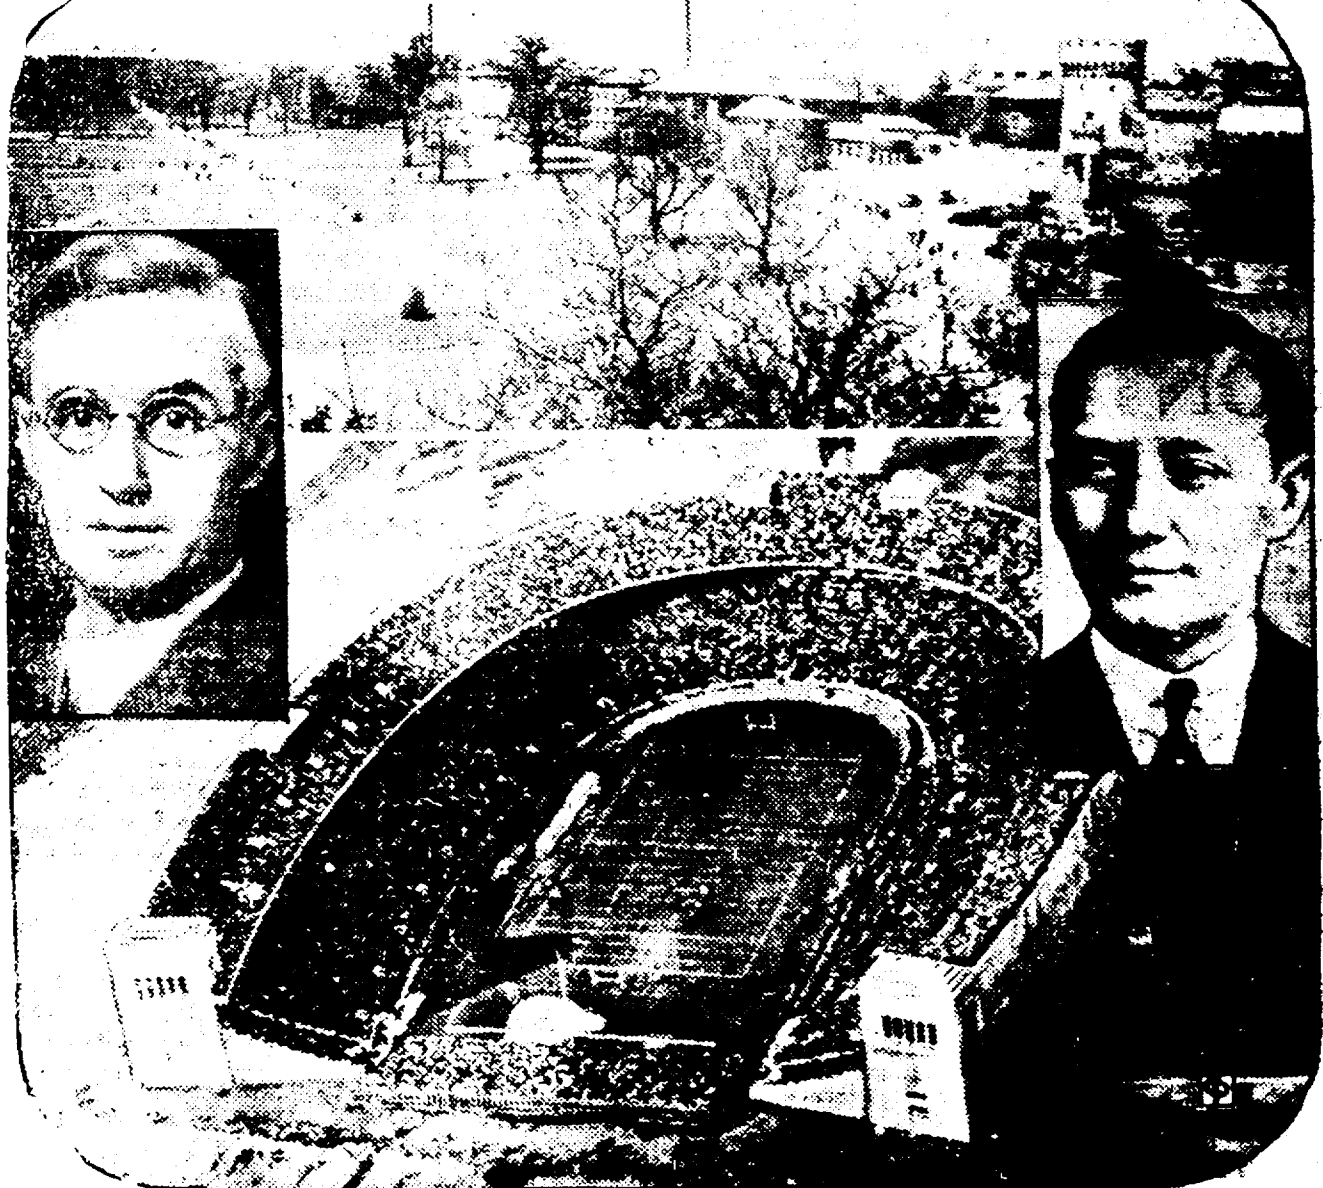

They are now studying the feed and housing of a laying flock for the winter.

The Junior and Senior agriculture class has complete the concrete work at the home of Mr. Kinser. During this work each one took part in the handling and mixing of cements.

Ohio Governor Stirs Up Football Tempest in Teapot

President Rightmire, views of Ohio State campus and stadium, and Governor Dargy.

No official action resulted from Governor Martin L. Davey's broadside to the effect that "most of the Ohio State university football squad" was on the state payroll. The tempest stirred among grid fans subsided when it was announced the Western Conference saw no objection to football players supporting themselves by outside employment.

President George W. Rightmire of the university listed 13 members, of the squad of 54, who had state jobs such as operating elevators and working in state offices. The governor and school officials have been at odds since Gov. Davey reduced the institution's operating appropriation below a sum university officials they must have.

About This And That In Many Sports

Newhall Covers Up

Bob Newhall, who blab-blahs for WLW, did everything he could Wednesday evening to smooth over a precarious situation. He was assailed on all sides and by all newspapers for statements accredited to him last Friday that the Big Ten was a set-up and that Ohio State was the worst of the bunch. We didn't hear him last week and probably wouldn't have known what he was saying had we been on the air, so all we know is what we read. How so many writers and radio listeners could have been wrong is beyond us. Mr. Newhall declares he said nothing against the Big Ten nor Ohio State and that any one who heard him was all wet. *

Bands to Compete

There will be another contest in addition to that between gridders Saturday when Ohio State and Northwestern tangle. The crack bands of the two schools will meet for honors. The Wildcat band is of 140 pieces and is plenty clever. * * * Saturday'll be Dad's Day at the stadium. *

Name Four Ex-Birds

The "freshman" team picked from all major league baseball teams by the Sporting News of St. Louis, official baseball publication, honors the Columbus Red Bird farm of the Cardinals. Four ex-birds are placed on the first year team. They are Lew Riggs and Billy Myers, third baseman and shortstop respectively of the Cincinnati Reds; Kenny O'Dea, second string catcher of the Chicago Cubs, and Terry Moore, regular centerfielder, of the Cardinals. All graduated from the Card farm just a year ago. Others on the first year team are: Tamulis of the Yankees, Blanton of the Pirates, and Castleman of the Giants although we can't see his first year rating; pitchers Moses of the Athletics and Powell of Washington, outfielders; Cavaretta of the Cubs, first base; Berger of the Indians, second base. * * * It's a darned good ball team. *

DIAMOND GLINTS * * *

Jakie May, pitching for the Cardinals, averaged two victories a year for five years, 1917-1921. Babe Adams pitched 21 innings for Pittsburgh against the Giants, July 17, 1914 and did not issue a single base on balls; he lost, 3 to 1. Charlie Berry, Athletic catcher, was an all-American end at Lafayette in 1924. Joe Tinker was the first player to hit a home run in a world series game; for the Cubs against the Tigers in 1908. * * *

OFFICIALS PREDICT SELL-OUT FOR ILLINI

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17.—With the ticket sale closed for the Notre Dame-Ohio State football game to be played at Ohio stadium Nov. 2, a grand rush has started to obtain seats for the Illinois contest Nov. 16, the last home game for the Bucks.

So great has been the rush for Illinois tickets during the last days that Henry D. Taylor, director of ticket sales, is predicting another sell-out for that contest. "Since Illinois defeated Southern California Saturday we have literally been swamped with applications for tickets to our game with the Illini," Taylor said today. "If this keeps up you will see another sell-out for Nov. 16," he added.

Should this occur it will be the first time Ohio State has had two sell-out games in one season since the Bucks met Princeton and Michigan the same year.

SCHMIDT SAYS OHIO TO HAVE DIFFICULT JOB

Must Stop Cruice, Swisher and Heap; McDonald and Williams to Get Action

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17.—From over around Evanston, Ill., comes the news that Northwestern's football coaching staff has been flooding the adjoining countryside with whole-hearted tears induced by the fact that the Wildcats are the next Ohio State grid opponents.

However, the walls of Lynn Waldorf and his aides have left little impression upon Coach Francis Schmidt of the Buckeyes who can visualize little else except the vicious Wildcats clawing deep into the Scarlet Scourge.

In other words, Schmidt, while far from being depressed, is also some distance removed from jubilation. The Buckeye mentor thinks the Scarlet warriors, despite their showing last Saturday, are going to have a fierce battle on their hands.

Has Three Stars

Schmidt can't understand why Waldorf is so morose since the Wildcat mentor has such stars as Co-Captain Wally Cruice, Bob Swisher, and Don Heap performing in the Purple backfield.

"That trio is dangerous and packs plenty of running and passing power," Schmidt said. "Why that Cruice guy can get the opposition turning on its head the way he throws passes."

It might be stated that Cruice is one of the few left-handed passing aces in the mid-west.

"And besides that great passing threat, Northwestern's triple-threat sophomore, Heap, is one of the flashiest runners in the conference and he'll probably give us plenty of trouble," Schmidt added.

"Heap is so good that he has just about beaten Swisher out for the left halfback position. I guess I'm the guy that ought to do quite a bit of wailing."

The Buckeye coach expects Waldorf's charges to spring plenty of new offensive tricks against Ohio since Northwestern has had two weeks to prepare for the contest. The Evanston crew enjoyed an open date last week.

Line in Conditions

As far as the Buckeye line is concerned, Schmidt said that all of his regulars would probably be in condition to start the Purple conflict.

Jim McDonald, sophomore full-back, will see plenty of action in the Scarlet backfield while Jumping Joe Williams, the bounding Barborteen citizen, will undoubtedly replace Heckin before the game gets too well along in time.

REPORT SHARKEY TO FACE LOUIS

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Jack Sharkey, ex-heavyweight champion, thinks Joe Louis is a palooka who will be knocked over by the first real fighter he faces and for that reason he's going to hit himself off to Maine for a rigorous reconditioning campaign prior to a return to the ring. At least that's the way the rumor mongers along Broadway had it today.

Gridders Just After Position

COLUMBUS, Oct. 17.—Maybe you have heard the question asked, or even been asked yourself, as to the reason for Ohio State's large score against Drake university last Saturday. The Bucks won 85 to 7.

Here's Referee Joe Magidsohn's explanation: "Their plays just clicked, that's all. Ohio State players were not bearing down at any time in the game after the first five minutes. They were working easily."

Here is the explanation made by the players themselves: "If you were trying for a place on the team, the team which we all hope will be Ohio State's greatest, what would you do, go out there and fiddle around or try to make touchdowns? Well, so did we."

And that seems to be the logical explanation. Coach Schmidt has 38 boys of varsity caliber. They all want to make the grade and to date not a single man is sure of his place on the team. Therefore, when these boys got their chance to make a showing they wanted to do their best and no boy can be censured for playing the game the way he has been taught.

Coach Schmidt did his level best to stop the touchdown parade by keeping a steady string of replacements going onto the field but to no avail. He used 47 men during the afternoon, every man on his squad except three who were on the injured list.

LOUIS TO BATTLE UZCUDUN, MAYBE

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—John Roxborough, one of Joe Louis managers, was dug in New York to close with Mike Jacobs for a fight for the brown bomber in December at the New York coliseum.

Those who profess to be "in the know," say Louis is destined to meet Paulino Uzcudun, the durable basque, who has never been knocked out.

If Louis can stop Uzcudun, even his most reactionary critics will concede he has plenty of punching power.

Jacobs expressed the belief that any match involving Louis in the coliseum would draw about $120,000.

Paulino is understood to have been offered $40,000 and a percentage of the gate if he will meet the conqueror of Max Baer and Primo Camera.

NEW CHAMP LOOMS

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Carrying dynamite in either hand, Pedro Montanez, a kid from Cayey, Puerto Rico, loomed today as a new, and real, threat to the supremacy of lightweight champion Tony Canzoneri.

Last night Pedro whipped Steve Halaiko, of Buffalo, N. Y., in ten rounds in a fight which was astonishing for its fury and dash. At the end, Halaiko was reeling.

USE SIX NEW MEN

NEW CONCORD, Oct. 17.—Six new faces will be in the Muskies starting lineup when the Muskies tackle Heidelberg here tomorrow.

The newcomers will include Vanaman at quarterback, Heacock at fullback, Taylor and Baunrier at tackle, Gregg at end, and Glass at guard.

TWO-YEAR-OLD STREAK - By Jack Sords

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—The battered and beaten Trojans of the University of Southern California today were to be given a long and strenuous drill in pass defense. Oregon State, which will oppose the Trojans Saturday boasts of a sensational passing attack, and the Jones-coached crew has shown a marked inability to halt an air offensive this year.

Michigan Mentor Says Tulane Will Be "Workout" for Minnesota — Wolverine Finally Becomes Favorite, in Game With Wisconsin

By HARRY KIPKE
Football Coach, University of Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 17.—There is a lot of romance packed into this game of football. It's a story of high adventure. It is warfare scaled down to the field of sport, but warfare just the same. It is the story of campaigns carefully planned, of strategy same. It is the story of campaigns fought according to an operations schedule. It is the story of invasions into foreign lands, of high hopes, of great ambitions, of triumphs and of failures.

Next Saturday should see good teams battling for sectional honors. Minnesota will take on a southern eleven in Tulane and will no doubt follow through on the job it did last Saturday. Tulane isn't the best team the south could have picked for this test by a long ways, but it isn't one of the set-ups in the south either.

There was a lot of doubt in the Gopher camp a week ago, with not only the rooters but probably the players themselves wondering just how good the big boys were. That doubt is all gone now, dissipated completely by the Nebraska triumph, and its place is a confidence which will carry the Bierman team a long ways. It will be almost a warm-up game for Minnesota, this battle with Tulane, and Coach Ted Cox, of the New Orleans team, himself a former Gopher, will see another great Minnesota team in action.

Indiana will take care of Cincinnati university just as it took care of Centre college. The Hoosiers trotted out a great assortment of plays on the Michigan gridiron last Saturday and Cincinnati will see them this week.

Michigan State, Notre Dame and the University of Detroit this week will be playing eastern teams and the East can look forward to little comfort in the situation. Boston college will be a good test for Bachman's fine eleven from Michigan State and the Boston open date last Saturday will help but not enough. State is to be considered as one of the great elevens of the country this year. Notre Dame takes on Pittsburgh and should continue its victory stride. Catholic university will invade Detroit with a nice early-season victory to its credit, but the University of Detroit hasn't been the underdog yet and it won't be in this game. And Marquette will continue its great drive toward recognition with another victory, this time over St. Louis university.

Each will be preparing for the other for the Hawkeyes and the Illini clash one week from next Saturday. That will be some ball game; with the speed merchants, Spurgeon and Simmons, pitted against each other. We'll leave predicting on that game for another week and a lot of crystal gazing.

Battling Bishop Linemen Who Meet Syracuse 11

For the eighth time in ten years, Ohio Wesleyan's football team will travel to Syracuse, N. Y., Saturday to meet Syracuse, perennially a power in eastern football.

Herewith are down some of the Bishop linemen who will see action in the game. At the upper left is Ray Overturf, Columbus, "iron man" on the team who played nearly every quarter last year.

At the upper right is Sam Roberts, Delaware, a guard. Others in the layout are Bill Stults, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Bud Rybolt, Delaware, and Hal Miller, Buryans, all guards; Oral Huth, Akron, and Bob Longworth, Hicksville, both tackles, and Jerry Dann, Kingston, N. Y., an end.

In the seven games played with Syracuse to date Ohio Wesleyan has won two and tied two, with Syracuse winning three.

Buckeye and Purple

In the Western Conference itself the Ohio State-Northwestern game will be the big contest. Ohio seems to have gained the momentum predicted and there is every reason to believe that it has entirely too much for the eleven coached for the first time by Waldorf. Ohio will cut loose this boy "Jumping Joe" Williams and he will go places.

The Chicago-Purdue game will be a whizzbang, too. While Coach Shaughnessy still has his full strength, including Berwanger, it seems that Purdue will have too much power to turn on. Berwanger showed a lot of ability at throwing forward passes last Saturday, and Purdue almost got into difficulty against Fordham in the matter of stopping that kind of an attack. Maybe Berwanger will make it tough for the Boilermakers. But not tough enough. McGannon and Wright, operating behind that fine Purdue line, will do too many things.

Then there is that game up at Madison, Wis., with Michigan as the invaders. It will be a new experience for the Wolverines, for it appears we'll go into that game as favorite. Up to now we have been rather consistent underdogs.

The other two Conference teams, Iowa and Illinois, will be resting. And do they deserve it! Their great victories enhanced the prestige of the Big Ten last Saturday and those boys have a week off coming to them.

GRID STAR DIES

WELLESLEY, Mass., Oct. 17.—Jack Fenwick, 17, star halfback and baseball captain of Wellesley high school, was dead today a victim of football injuries. Fenwick was carried from a game with Natick high last Saturday. He died of internal injuries.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—The battered and beaten Trojans of the University of Southern California today were to be given a long and strenuous drill in pass defense. Oregon State, which will oppose the Trojans Saturday boasts of a sensational passing attack, and the Jones-coached crew has shown a marked inability to halt an air offensive this year.

LAYDEN FEELS LINE TO HURT TEAM CHANCE

Pleased With Backfield as Notre Dame Prepares for Pitt's Invasion

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 17.—Distressed at the manner in which the frosh ran through the Notre Dame varsity and second stringers with Pittsburgh plays yesterday, Coach Elmer Layden planned another long session of defensive work for the Irish today.

Although blessed with a plentitude of backs, Layden has fears for his green forward wall. Frank Kopeczak was at the injured John Michuta's post at right tackle yesterday. Mike Layden was in uniform but did not get into the scrimmage. His halfback position was played by Vic Wojchaowski.

PAPICH ONLY INJURY

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Sam Papich, veteran tackle, will be the only Northwestern regular on the injured list when the Wildcats depart to-night for Columbus and their game with Ohio State Saturday. A long session against Buckeye plays was given the varsity last night.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 17.—Tom McGannon will be at Cecil LaBell's halfback post when the Boilermakers lineup against Chicago there Saturday, it appeared certain today. The Texas star reported for practice last night with his shoulder injury still aggravated, and it is unlikely he will be able to play against the Maroons.

USE FIVE SOPHOMORES

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—A light, final workout was scheduled for the University of Pittsburgh football machine today, after which Coach "Jock" Sutherland will select the squad for the trip to South Bend and the Notre Dame meeting Saturday. The team planned to leave tonight. It was expected five sophomores will start the game for the Panthers, hard-hit by injuries to regular players.

Max Baer is going to sink some money in white-faced cattle. Anxious to avoid, no doubt, even a remote reminder of Joe Louis.

Stanford Star Out

Frank Alustiza

An eye injury suffered in the game between Stanford and U. C. L. A. has ended the football career of Frank Alustiza, above, star Stanford halfback. There appears to be no permanent injury to the eye, but further aggravation might be dangerous, according to university physicians.

TELLTALE CABBAGE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Frank Ruffa missed some cabbage and a cabbage was found in the car of Lewis Wells and Claud Smothers, but the task of identifying that cabbage as one of Ruffa's appeared an impossible one. Patrolmen Clarence Stickler and John Hols-law, however, brought in evidence that sent the two suspects to jail. They took the cabbage and "tried it on" all the cabbages on Ruffa's farm, finally finding one that fitted perfectly.

14 MEETINGS FOR CORN-HOG DISCUSSIONS

Series of Informational Sessions to Start Next Monday; List Schedule

Fourteen community meetings where Pickaway-co farmers will be given the facts on the present corn-hog situation and outlook as a forerunner for the nation-wide corn-hog referendum on Saturday, Oct. 26, have been announced starting Monday, Oct. 21 and ending Friday, Oct. 25, it is announced by County Agent E. E. Han.

The schedule of places and times follows:

FRIDAY, Oct. 25, 8 p.m., Darby-twp., Township-house.

Numbers Out of Live

The situation to be discussed at the meetings is one in which live stock numbers are far out of line with feed supplies as a result of the drought. With plentiful supplies of cheap feed in prospect and with rapid rebuilding of swine numbers possible, farmers and consumers face the prospect that the next three years may bring an increase in hog production too quickly to be absorbed without recurrence of disastrous hog prices.

Ten such violent ups and downs, or cycles, during the past 45 years have undermined the swine industry, brought violent upswings in pork prices, destroyed farm buying power, and wiped out markets for industrial products.

In the opinion of committeemen who attended a recent county meeting, not only the future of the hog industry but also the gains that have been made during the past two years are at stake in the forthcoming referendum. Those two years have seen the end of ruinously low prices for corn and hogs with consequent benefits both to farmers and industrial activities. In recent months, for the first time in nearly ten years,

Corn and hog prices have been at or near their fair exchange value. Despite the drought, cash farm income from hogs in 1934, including adjustment payments, was more than 37 per cent greater than in 1933 and nearly 60 per cent greater than in 1932.

4-H CLUB MEETS

The Logan Elm Campfire Cookery held a meeting at Niles Camp Oct. 6. The parents were invited. A dinner of Chili Con Carne, sandwiches, Pie, Coffee, and cake was served. Those who attended the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Pontious and daughters, Irene and Maryline, Mr. and Mrs. Lynna Riffle and children, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Liest and children, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krisel and children, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Warner and sons, Mr. and Mrs. George Jury and son, and Hoyt, Virgil, Edna, and Truit Timmons, and Helen Westenhaver. The next meeting will be held on Oct. 20.

Distance is supposed to lend enchantment. But, even from this vantage point, Mussolini's tactics look pretty raw to us.

BENITO MUSSOLINI — HIS RISE TO POWER

No. 5

King Victor Emmanuel and Mussolini—two comrades

Following his triumph in Rome, Mussolini lost no time in putting into effect the tenets of Fascism. More than 1,000 new legislative measures were enacted by his government in the first two years of his regime. The party system was wiped out overnight. At the same time, Mussolini followed up his conquest of October, 1922, by utilizing his Blackshirts as the basis of an armed force which today has only one superior in number, the Red army of Soviet Russia. The doctrine of his nationalism can be seen in one of his statements: "For my part, I prefer 50,000 rifles to 5,000,000 votes." By his own word, Mussolini today could put 9,000,000 men into the field. They would all be young but all would be fighters. Mussolini is the only "Caesar" who has allowed another to sit on the throne. The gradual change in relations between Victor Emmanuel and Mussolini is graphically portrayed in the above picture. It must be remembered that when the Fascists rose to take over the government, the then premier, Facta, prepared a decree declaring Italy in a state of siege. Victor Emmanuel refused to sign it. And Mussolini did not forget this. The photo shows the king and his premier dressed formally for his royal audience, the day that Victor Emmanuel surrendered the last shred of his royal power and made Mussolini II Duce by giving him unlimited right of action. Note how they walk together as comrades.

"June in January" Becomes Reality In Gas Heated Circleville Home

Furnace Cares Vanish When Gamble Family Installs Gas Heat

The uniform, healthful temperatures of June's most balmy day prevail in January—and all winter long—in the home belonging to Mrs. S. C. Gamble, 313 South Court St. Supplying this ideal indoor weather is an automatic gas-fired central heating plant, one of the many installations in Circleville residences.

Mrs. Gamble is enthusiastic about the many advantages of gas for heating her home. The convenient, clean and dependable qualities of gas make it the ideal fuel for central house heating. Uniform temperatures automatically controlled by a thermostat result in better living for this family during the winter season. Mrs. Gamble says, "We are very well pleased with our automatic gas heating equipment."

Gas heat for the nine rooms of this home during the heating season costs an average of $17.55 per month. This is less than $2 per room, at which rate a six room residence would cost approximately $12 per month.

K. W. Higgins filed suit in common pleas court Thursday against C. M. Dick, M. Sterling, Harry H. Beale and Martin Lutz as executors of the will of Manne Beale, probated in Ross-co. The action states on Oct. 8 the plaintiff obtained a $1,500 judgment in common pleas court against C. M. Dick, a legatee under the will. The action asks the executors set aside the interest of Mr. Dick for settlement of the judgment.

methods are saved by gas heat. A gas-fired unit can be started at the first cold snap of fall, forgotten until spring. It requires no attention, no shoveling, no removal of ashes, entirely eliminating any furnace labor expense.

Clean gas heat cuts household cleaning costs as much as 50 per cent, increases the life of curtains, rugs and furnishings. Medical expenses likewise are minimized by the even, healthful temperatures in gas heated homes during charitable winter weather.

The savings made possible in these and other expenses incidental to old-fashioned forms of heating more than make up for the slightly higher fuel cost of gas.

Because of these many advantages hundreds of families in this community are joining the big swing to gas heat.

Free Estimate Furnished

A gas-fired unit can be installed quickly and easily in your present furnace or boiler. It may be paid for in easy monthly installments like rent. An estimate of the cost of heating your home with gas will be furnished by a competent heating engineer without obligation. Why not take advantage of this free estimating service now by calling The Gas Company, telephone 81. You'll be pleasantly surprised to find how economical this ideal heating method really is.—Adv.

Suffering In Silence

Her friends no longer sympathize with her—they have told her all about VATONA, but she is one of those old-fashioned souls that still believe women were "born to suffer".

Women who use VATONA (and there are many among your acquaintances) use it regularly—they would never think of permitting periodical pain to endanger their health and beauty. VATONA is so dependable—is absolutely harmless—two very good reasons why physicians recommend it.

Why experiment with patent medicine?
